The Youth Group Helper

Adolescence in church is marked by a series of transitions; what do I believe, where do I belong and how can I serve? OEC employs a complex framework to grow young adolescent disciples of Jesus. All teenagers are part of a family and many OEC Youth have Christian parents who are the primary disciple makers for their children. In addition, most teenagers at OEC are members of two congregations, attend OEC Youth, and are seeking opportunities to serve.

Within this framework, our Youth Group Helpers have an opportunity to play a significant role within the team for a shorter, fixed period of time. By serving for one term they display to our teenagers the importance of prioritising youth group, they model Christian maturity to our younger youth group leaders, and they demonstrate the power of intergenerational discipleship as they share the word, and pray with teenagers. They are under the oversight of their Team Leader, Youth Minister, and the spiritual authority of the Overseers.

Youth Group Helpers prayerfully lead all the teenagers under their care, through the powerful and effective word of God. Youth Group is a team ministry that requires its members to actively volunteer for roles, support one another, speak the truth in love, and model faithful Christian living. An essential component of the helper role is co-leading a small group that seek to disciple, encourage and care for young people at Youth Group. Small Group Co-leaders must work together to pastor, care for and grow each member of the group. How this will work will be different depending on the personalities and different giftedness of the leaders.

Youth Group Helper – the role in practice.

Youth Leading is discipling young people. So a Youth Group Helper will:

- Weekly prepare and pray for Small Group

- Together with the team, partnering with parents, praying for teenagers to come to faith, welcoming new teenagers, following up absent teenagers and training teenagers to serve.
- Together with their Co-Leader teach, pastorally care and disciple the members of the group.

Leader Support

Youth Group Helpers are cared for by the Youth Minister, their Growth Group Leader and Congregational Minister. If difficulties arise between teenagers such as bullying, unhelpful dynamics, or unchristian behaviour the Youth Group Helper should look for support from the Team Leader and Youth Minister.

From time to time, teenagers may disclose abuse or Youth Group Helpers may have particular concerns about the welfare of certain children. These concerns should be raised immediately with a Safe Ministry Supervisor, who will support the leader as they care for any children in that situation, including assisting them to follow any official reporting obligations.

There will be times when the pastoral needs to teenagers require outside support. In these situations, the Youth Group Helper together with the Team Leader and Youth Minister will communicate the challenges of the teenager to their parents and engage outside services if necessary.
